As political violence and terrorism increase,
so does the probability of physical abuse.